DIRECTOR'S NOTE

2020 has been a year of great change with immeasurable lost opportunities for many! However, we at Liberty Drama decided to take advantage of this time to learn a new medium of art and give back to the youth of our community. Through the productions of The Big One-Oh! and The Musical Adventures of Flat Stanley, we have learned the ins and outs of virtual theatre.

We knew way before the need for virtual theatre that we wanted to dive into the world of children's theatre this fall. It is a great way to dig deeper into physical expression and exaggeration and work on techniques for engaging audiences that can be easily distracted (children!). The productions that you will view were developed from many hours of hard work, analysis, conversation, and dedication. What you see in these videos is innovation by our student body as they navigated new ways to design without actually being together to produce the work. It took many people to audio engineer, lay out videos, and edit each show, which was a result of a lot of trial and error from the production team, who are used to the nuances of live theatre. We could not be prouder of the creativity, dedication, and perseverance of this group of students.

This production could not have happened without the work, guidance, and assistance of many people. I first want to thank Megan Henderson, my co-director, for her countless hours, assistance, and ideas to help bring this show together. A huge thank you to Logan Betz for editing the entirety of The Big One-Oh!, and Corey Brown, Jimmy Case, and Lance Duvall for editing Flat Stanley. A HUGE thank you to my Booster Parents who had to take on many extra tasks this fall to help determine this new kind of theatre and produce creative digital media. Thank you to all parents and families for supporting the arts, helping your students to rearrange the house for optimal video recording conditions, and for supporting our program. Lastly, thank you to my husband for handling Gavin and our Doodle while I continue to do what I love, teach and produce theatre.

Liberty High School Drama Program

Mission Statement

The Liberty High School Drama Program seeks to educate the Liberty High School community about theater arts through theatrical productions, classes, and workshops.

Core Objectives

- Promote interest in Theater Arts.
- Provide opportunities for students to participate in drama-related activities annually.
- Foster school and community relations.
- Produce and Create dramatic productions each semester.
- Educate students about the world of theater.
- Inspire Liberty and the greater community with different creative art modalities.

The International Thespian Society—Troupe 984

The troupe is the honors component of Liberty’s theater program. The International Thespian Society (ITS) was chartered at LHS in 1981 and is the oldest and longest-standing honors society at Liberty. The ITS works toward excellence in theater by encouraging students to better master theater skills and by awarding student achievement with induction into the troupe. Those who show exemplary achievement shall be awarded with further honors.

College costs are skyrocketing.

You may end up paying more to educate your child(ren) than the price of your first home.

Our team helps students and parents tackle their biggest college concerns, such as: missing deadlines, making mistakes on financial aid forms, and overpaying at most schools.

Our goal is to develop a strategic plan that addresses these issues (and many more aspects of the overall college planning process).
